

Aoicalypse dream

we found out that the end of the world was going to be sooner than we thought and that we'd have to fly out to space to survive

my grandma did have a space ship but we didn't get to use it in the dream because we didn't get to the apocalypse before I woke up

I was talking about how I was terrified the whole time the gravity of earth was getting lower

The homes and stores outside looked abandoned like a desert while under ground there were crowds walking by

Which was where we went to a restaurant where I spent my last time there before waking up

I wanted to talk with my aunt's daughter

There was also a kid who was slightly annoying after I taught him not to touch metal that had things on it which he refused to believe and started talking annoyingly until I screamed out a swear on him

At that time it was a dark night, grandma was next to me, in the space ship was my other grandma who told me that we wouldn't fly out until a few days has gone by

I was working on an animation that I wanted to upload to youtube and also I tried to upload the short story ideas stand in, I screwed it up because Youtube only allows you to upload videos

Which is why I thought I should've made a video with the short story ideas in the description showing the link to the wayback machine where my short story ideas was

Hence why I was trying to make that animation video

The one part I remember about that animation was where I was drawing a castle, frame by frame it looking more and more complete, in one part being shaded surrounded by black then purple then I don't remember, and then a view of us looking around the castle like we were looking at a 3d scan from the sky even though that castle didn't look the same as the art it looked like a giant block of a house with many windows and one giant roof

I was scared that we couldn't bring any electronics so I'd have to write down stuff

Including my favorite song in that dream The Periodic Table Song (at least that's how the music goes) the lyrics was about me judging every person in the underground market, their names rhymed with the song and then other people started singing and at that time I was thinking "how many people's names will I have to write down, will I be able to just have an ai find out anyone's names and write down? Maybe the ai will get confused so the people who'll read this will realize that one part of the lyrics doesn't make sense for someone to say so they'll try to fix it... in space

The last thing I did was being in the restaurant with my aunt's daughter and others

I was coughing like my dog so people started calling me flat throat, I said I didn't mean to take that part of my dog I didn't intend to this throat problem just came to me

I also remember me trying to delete games but accidentally opening them and having to find out which buttons to press in order to turn them off because they were all full screen which was annoying

Actually we met the rocket grandma twice, once I don't remember and second time she looked like she has woken up because all she wore was a bra and underwear which is when she made me realize that the space ship was ours and that we'd be flying in a few days, before she said that I asked her if we were going to go at that time which is why she responded that I was still with my other grand ma which lead to us walking down the street In the day until night time when I met the annoying kid then the underground song happened and then the flat throat which people laughed at me for and then boom I was awake

I did comment about how terrifying the apocalypse was and I was thinking how I didn't know how to farm crops so we'd starve to death on Mars or something so I thought that I should find and bring books about how to take care of crops and then bring any food that we could grow in space

That's all I remember... oh also when I tried to upload the text document on Youtube it sent me to this confusing site where the background was a light shade of green and I pressed a bunch of text and got nowhere with trying to download it

I could make a story in the same world which would be kind of nice to fill in

I was stressed in the dream because I had limited time to make and upload my short story ideas before the whole world would go ka boom

I don't remember why the earth would be destroyed but I do remember fire and also Jupiter not looking so good

Also me and grandma did talk with one another and after we needed to climb over a flat house roof that was when I met that annoying kid even though he didn't look annoying which is why I tried to teach him that

Grandma also told me to calm down but not after I screamed at the kid at that time she hit my back with an open arm couple of times

I can't remember anything more than that

I was always thinking about time
